

RANGE LIGHT IS ORDERED

Authority for the construction of the new range light for Honolulu was received yesterday from Washington by Captain J. R. Slattery, U. S. A., Corps of Engineers. The Lighthouse Board has selected the intersection of Fort street and the Esplanade as the site for this concrete pillar.

The height of the tower from base to the floor of the balcony is fifty feet, and the height to the focal plane above mean tide is sixty feet. The height of the structure from the base to the top of the lantern is sixty-two feet.

The light will be of the fourth-class order, flashing a white light every five seconds. This flash will be visible sixteen miles at sea from the deck of a vessel like the Manchuria, twelve miles from the deck of a steamer like the Kinan and eight miles from a row-boat.

This is a rear range light, the harbor light being the front light. The plans for this harbor light, a new one, have not been acted upon yet.

The range light pillar is to be built of reinforced concrete at a cost of $10,000.

The Lighthouse Board is putting in a new beacon at Hilo, which will consist of a thirty-two-foot stone monument, on the top of which a lantern will be placed. The board is also soon to renew the beacons at Pepeekeo, where a sixty-foot steel mast will be raised, and at Nawiliwili, where a thirty-two-foot mast is to be erected.

MANCHURIA AT SAN FRANCISCO

The Pacific Mail liner Manchuria, which for twenty-seven days was grinding on a Hawaiian reef and which arrived Thursday evening from Honolulu, looks little the worse for her attempt to travel overland, says the Call of last Saturday. She floats on even keel. Fresh and shining paint has covered what scratches and scars she sustained above the water line in her struggle to climb the coral reef and later to win her way back into the element for which her builders intended her. Her decks were spotless yesterday as those of a smart yacht. Cabins, saloons and staterooms were immaculate, and even the engines, to the lay eye, presented their wonted appearance.

If she was leaking there was no evidence of pumping, and if nothing had been known of the liner's experience at Honolulu it would have taken something more discerning than the eye of a landsman to have detected anything the matter with the Manchuria as she swung to her anchor yesterday morning off the Presidio.

When she hove up her anchor and started for the upper bay, however, the unrythmic song of her engines told something of the discord wrought among her machinery while the great hull lay in the grip of the reef. Her engines did not work in harmony and the jar of the discord told even to the unpracticed ear that somewhere, away down in her vitals, the great steamship had been badly hurt. If she had been a man and had been taken to an emergency hospital the surgeon in charge would have put her to bed and diagnosed the case as "possible internal injuries."

From the report of the diver who examined the liner's bottom as she lay on the reef, there are no holes in the hull, but 60 per cent. of her bottom plates are bent and dinged. Many of the supports inside the double bottom are known to be bent and the engines will require much overhauling.

Captain Pillsbury returned on the Manchuria. Captain Metcalf came home on the Ventura. Until the vessel has been drydocked it will be impossible to estimate the full extent of the damage, but the bill for repairs will be heavy, and it will be not less than four months before the liner is in commission again.

Captain Saunders, master of the liner, would not discuss the mistake that led to her stranding and appeared to be more concerned about the loss and inconvenience to the company than worried about his own fate, which now lies between the Government inspectors and R. P. Schwerin.

Chief Officer Pillsbury, brother of Captain Pillsbury, who was injured by the breaking of a wire hawser as the liner was being anchored at Honolulu, has recovered and was attending to his duties yesterday as executive officer.

The battleship Wisconsin, which escorted the Manchuria from Honolulu, is now in quarantine. Two signal men from the warship were on board the Manchuria during the voyage from Honolulu and messages were exchanged daily between the two vessels. The voyage home was uneventful. Strong northwesterly winds were encountered as the vessels neared this coast, but caused no inconvenience, as the vessels had followed the sailing ship course at Captain Pillsbury's suggestion and when the northwester came it was a fair wind for the crippled liner.

AN ANTISEPTIC LINIMENT.

For wounds, burns and like injuries it is nothing better than Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It acts as an antiseptic, forming a thin, imperceptible film over the injured parts, which excludes the air and causes the injury to heal without matter being formed, and in much less time than by the usual treatment. In cases of burns it allays the pain almost instantly. Sold by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

THE COUNTY LEGISLATURE

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)

The meeting of the Board of Supervisors last night was uninteresting from the fact that there was no discussion of any importance to impel the members to active work. The politicians whose interests are centered here were in their seats as usual rather than on the stump working for themselves. Perhaps the absence of long discussion was due, in a measure, to the fact that the candidate members were anxious to get away.

A communication from Andrew Adams would have shaken Gear from the back seat to the front of the room. Evidently Gear's $4 a day speeches have been heard in Kahuku.

There were present Messrs. Archer, Cox, Dwight, Lucas, Moore, Paele and Chairman Smith. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and approved, reports were called for from the various committees, and bills from the different departments, aggregating $19,460.64, were approved and ordered paid.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

As usual, the police department gets the largest wad, $7715, and of this considerable went into the pockets of men on the police force who spend much of their time doing politics. The other machine, represented by bills of the road department for $2039, was third on the list, the second being the fire department with $3663.29. Following is the list:

Fixed salaries	$1670.00
Office clerks	310.00
County Auditor	120.00
County Attorney	735.00
County Treasurer	120.00
Keeper of parks	200.00
Poundmaster	30.00
Fire department	2663.29
Electric lights	681.50
Police and fire alarm	165.00
Kapiolani park	356.75
Road department	2039.00
Police department	7715.00
County Engineer	373.00
Garbage department	200.00
Ewa road district	1251.60
Waialua road district	75.00
Koolauloa No. 1	100.00
Koolauoko road district	135.00
Waialae road	647.00

$19,460.64

THE PEARL CITY ROAD.

The matter of an easement in the road at Pearl City made its appearance through an opinion rendered by County Attorney Douthett: "Inasmuch as the county has assumed the burden of maintaining public roads throughout the Territory, and as section 9, subdivision 2, chapter 4 of the County Act deals with the subject and grants the county the right to purchase and otherwise acquire property, I can see no legal reason why the county should not accept an easement over the road in question."

Mr. Lucas said there was no use of the board taking it over when the owners may close it at any time.

The Chair said he had read that any road, in which an easement had been granted the county, occupied as a right of way, could not be closed by the owners of the road after five years.

Mr. Archer told what had been done in the way of improving the thoroughfare and added that the crusher had been removed from the section, and as it is so far from the work that it takes longer to get along with the improvements.

On motion the opinion was laid on the table, to be disposed of later.

RAPID TRANSIT OBJECTS.

The complaint of the Rapid Transit Company relative to grades caused some discussion. The general manager complained that the road supervisor was raising the surface of the streets, particularly on Beretania, between Pili and Pensacola. The space between the tracks, owing to a change in the grade, seems to have become a runway for water, endangering the electrical equipment of the cars and clothing of passengers riding on the runningboard. Mr. Ballantyne did not wish to be considered as standing in the way of improvements, but he believed drainage should be provided.

Mr. Johnson reported on the matter, saying he found that the highest point on the street occupied by the tracks is but five inches higher than the lowest point of the curb, and that he had built the streets on the sidewalk grade, which is considered official. As it is there is a double crown, a plan approved by Engineer Gere and the board.

Mr. Ballantyne was present and repeated that he did not wish to be understood as interfering with improvements. His company had made no improvements or changes in their tracks. He described the condition of the street and said one of the objections is based upon the unnecessarily large amount of water which gathers under the cars and between the tracks during a storm. At such times there is danger to the electrical equipment and to the cars from being charged. This was dangerous to the passengers, and the cause should be remedied. He said it was an easy matter, as boxes could be procured for $10 each. Mr. Ballantyne showed great fairness in his presentation of the case and asked nothing, he said, that should not be allowed under the company's franchise.

Mr. Gere submitted a plan for grading the streets on which the rails of the company were laid and for the provision of suitable drains. To this Sam Johnson objected unless the board would allow him double the amount now appropriated.

Mr. Lucas objected to change of grade on score of expense and said the company might put in the drains and catchbasins.

Mr. Smith suggested that the catchbasins be installed and Mr. Lucas moved that the Road Supervisor be instructed to take the necessary steps at once.

The bond of J. W. Cathcart as Deputy County Attorney was received and approved. It was furnished by a guaranty company and the county pays the

EX-SPEAKER BECKLEY IS NOMINATED FOR SENATE

At 11 o'clock last night three representatives of the Home Rule committee called at the Secretary's office and filed the nomination paper of Fred Beckley, for the Senate, from Oahu. Beckley was formerly speaker of the House. The probable purpose of the nomination is to beat Chillingworth.

THE STRANGE STORY OF A KIDNAPED NATIVE WOMAN

Mrs. Flora K. Crowell, a native woman, after being sought for ten months by Board of Health officers, was apprehended and conveyed to the Kalihi Receiving Station. It is not the long pursuit of her, though, which is of particular interest, for in that regard her case is but one of many old stories and some of them tragic. There is a tragedy, too, in Mrs. Crowell's narrative.

Since the woman has come into custody of the Health authorities she has given information to the effect that she had been kept a prisoner.

She was the daughter of Hattie K. Hiram who died Nov. 5, 1905, and was married in 1900 to Clement C. Crowell at which time a daughter was born. Six months afterwards she was arrested as a leper suspect and taken to Kalihi Receiving Station. She was permitted to reside outside while receiving treatment. Her mother then sent her to Japan, in company with another leper suspect, for medical treatment.

Owing to some irregularity in receiving the money sent for her maintenance there she returned to Honolulu within nine months. On arriving here she went to her mother's house on Beretania street where she has been faithfully concealed from 1900 to the date of her mother's death, her presence being known to no one but her mother, a woman named Kelua, and George Kaia. On the date when her mother was alleged to be sick, she heard loud language and thinking all was not right presented herself. Her mother's brother, Solomon Hiram, was surprised as any one at her putting in an appearance. He, together with Kelua and George Kaia, took hold of her and forced her into a cottage in the yard and locked her up. The following day, and while her mother was still alive they took her off to George Kaia's house on Young street.

From there she was taken to a place up in Kalihi valley where she lived when they took her to a small grass house above Punchbowl, on the way to Tantalus. She escaped from there and got back to her own house on Beretania street, where she has lived in seclusion, no one knowing of her whereabouts except an old man who brought her food. During the two latter days of her stay there he failed to come and she almost starved.

A childhood friend of hers, happening to go through the yard, saw her and took pity on her and took her to her own house on Young street.

She is a natural daughter of John Cummins who had been paying money for her support in Japan. When her mother died, so suddenly, he was called and took charge of her funeral and learned for the first time that she was in this country. He sent many messages and messengers to her, but was utterly unable to get communication with her. He pitied her living in that hunted condition and used every possible endeavor to reach her without avail.

Solomon Hiram had gone away with the Hawaiian band and had left written instructions with those in charge of her (which she afterwards saw).

When she came out of her concealment on the 12th of October she consented to have him come and see her, which he did, and provided her with the necessities of life. He had taken her child to his house at the time of the grandmother's sudden death. The child was not supposed to know she was her mother although frequently at the grandmother's house when away from the school, and of course saw her.

Mrs. Crowell found that all of her mother's clothing had been taken so that she was both without food and clothing.

She made a power of attorney to J. A. Cummins on giving him full power over her property. He, being advised, made a trust deed to W. O. Smith, knowing that it required a stronger man than himself to collect and care for her property. W. O. Smith, thinking it would be advisable to have the husband join in the deed delayed putting the power of attorney and deed on record. The following week more of her friends gathered around her and persuaded her to make a power of attorney to R. W. Breckons.

The following day she made another to Cummins revoking the one to Mr. Breckons. The day after that she was arrested by the President of the Board of Health and taken to the Kalihi Receiving Station. Here she was kept two nights and released and immediately made another power of attorney to Mr. Breckons. She is now staying with friends in Puna.

There is no doubt of it that the sudden death of her mother and her long concealment should be examined into by the present grand jury.

for the accommodation of the Alexander Young Hotel Co. baths, was brought up for consideration and finally decided. It was shown that the extension of the sewer to the garage would cost $714 and of this amount the hotel people are willing to pay $250. Mr. Moore thought the work had better be continued to Hotel street if there was sufficient money for the purpose. Until then the terminus will be the garage.

ROAD MEN STRIKE.

Andrew Adams wrote concerning the appointment of a road luna at Kahuku and stated that he wanted to appoint a brother of Engineer Gere at $100 a month. He reported further that, acting upon the advice of Police Officer Logan, his road men had struck work while building camp. They demanded $1.25 a day, but he refused to yield, and with a few of the faithful he continued the work. He was afterwards informed that he could have all the men he wished in Laie for $1 per day each.

The matter of ballots for the coming election was up for discussion, a section of the County Act providing that they must be inspected by the Board of Supervisors not less than two days before election. In order to get them into the outside districts it was thought best for the board to meet again on Friday, November 2, at which time the budget for November will be considered.

C. W. Spitz, the Lihue merchant, is in town.

HILO'S BIG NEW YEAR

The Hawaii Jockey Club proposes to carry out the following program on January 1, 1907:

10 o'clock a. m.—Hack race from the postoffice to a point one mile distant from there on Front street, $25.
10:15 a. m.—Aquatic sports at Waiala river, consisting of tub race, $5.
Swimming race for boys under 15 years old, $5.
Swimming race for girls under 16 years old, $5.
Swimming race, free for all, $5.
Diving for coins, $5.
10:45 a. m.—Foot race from Waiala bridge to ticket office at Honolulu park, $10.
11 a. m.—Baseball game between Moehau and Beavers, $25.
12 m.—Light luncheon in Pavilion hall.

1 p. m.—First race, half mile, Hawaiian bred, $25 and cup.
Foot race, 100 yard dash, for all comers, $5.
Second race, half mile Luna race, $25.
Putting shot, $5.
Third race, one mile, Hawaiian bred, $25 and cup.
Foot race, 220-yard dash, $5.
Fourth race, half mile, gentlemen's riding race, race horses barred, cup.
Tug-of-war between Olan and Waiala teams, $25.

Fifth race, three-quarters of a mile, Hawaiian bred, $25 and cup.
Sixth race, half mile, Hawaiian bred, trot or pace, best two in three heats; to win the cup winner's time must be 1:20 or better for the half mile; $25 and cup.
Seventh race, half mile, fancy saddle horse race, singlefoot, pace or trot, cup.
Eighth race, one mile novelty race, Hawaiian bred, $50 and cup, divided as follows: Horse to reach one-quarter mile pole first, $10; one-half mile pole first, $12.50; three-quarter mile pole first, $12.50; wire first, $15 and cup.
Ninth race, half mile, Japanese race, $25.

No entrance fee or stall rent will be charged. The track is now ready for horses to commence training and all parties desiring stalls should apply at once to the secretary for same. There are eleven horses, all Hawaiian bred, now in training at the track, and as many more are expected within a week or so. The novelty race is new in Hilo and should furnish rare sport, as there is a winning at each post.

It will be noticed that the purses are smaller than usual this year, and that a number of cups have been hung up, which is to conform with the wishes of the ranchers, as they are looking for the sport and not the money there is in it.

Experienced jockeys will be barred. The judges to decide who are experienced jockeys.

Cups to be won twice by the same owner before becoming his property. Entire purses to go to winners, except as otherwise specified.

WOOD'S EXCURSION FROM LOS ANGELES

H. P. Wood, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, is planning a Los Angeles business men's excursion to Honolulu, to take place some time before the regular excursion season from the East begins. He believes that Los Angeles and Honolulu should enjoy much closer relations and that Los Angeles should get much of the island trade which now goes to the northern seaports.

Mr. Wood is planning to take about 100 representative business men to the islands. He plans to start late in November and get back about Christmas. He is optimistic about the future of Los Angeles, believing that in a few months it will become the leading city on the Pacific Coast.—Los Angeles Examiner.

BECKLEY DECLINES THE NOMINATION

Fred W. Beckley lost no time Friday morning in repudiating his nomination for the Senate by the Home Rulers, which had been filed at 11 o'clock the night before as reported in yesterday's Advertiser.

He gave formal notice in writing to Chief Clerk Buckland of the Secretary's office that he would not accept the nomination. To pressmen he stated that he had refused Kuphea on Friday to stand for the House, telling him that he was out of the Home Rule party and in the Republican.

Major Russell, commander of the local guard of United States marines, has been informed that a subtarget gun machine had been shipped for the use of his command. This device has proved a great success in marksmanship training.

his back upon the "ladle and the booze."

A BROWN TALKER.

Among the hardest workers for Brown is the one-armed man who takes his place at the corner of King and Bethel streets every noon. He is loud of mouth and has the virtues of the party for which he works as pat as salt. When he was on a mission of mercy for the Republicans, he spouted as if he believed what he said. Then he became a Home Ruler, for revenge, and told of the good things that would come to the Hawaiians after the election. That was during the campaign when Iaukea had the Congressional chair on his mind. He then told the Hawaiians that if he elected Iaukea instead of Cupid he would work for the disfranchisement of the Hawaiians. He talked so much of this that they were beginning to believe him, and the result of that election was traced partly to this cause. Finally he was arrested for criminal libel. The case dragged along for a time and was finally dropped, when this same man, Umuama, went into court and admitted that he was a liar and then made affidavit to that effect. At that time he wrote an article which was published in a native paper here at the time. In the office of a law firm in Honolulu there is a document of which a copy is here given. It reads:

Col. C. P. Iaukea, Honolulu.

Dear Sir: I wish to retract all charges that I have preferred against you in a certain affidavit published by me on the 4th day of November, 1904, in the Kuokoa Homa Rula, in this city, under the following title, "Ino ka ia, uumiamaka he okea o loko," and I hereby declare that the affidavit in question and the contents are false, and I hereby apologize for having made said affidavit or used it and ask you to excuse me and forgive me for so doing. STEPHEN UMAUMA.

And Stephen is now a Brown man.

COMMENT BY THE WAY.

A gentleman who read this affidavit in the office of the attorney made a rather harsh comment upon the Sheriff for his selection of spellbinders: "You will note," he said, "that this Umuama admits perjury in this retraction and he says he is sorry for having lied about Iaukea. And yet he is now in the employ of the Sheriff making speeches to the Hawaiians at noon every day and going about at night disturbing the Democratic meetings. That is the class of men sent out to tell respectable men how to vote. Is it any wonder he wants a man for Sheriff who will not enforce the law?"

"The Advertiser is putting it in pretty strong," said Link McCandless yesterday, "but it hit the nail on the head when it charged a worker of the Republican party with treachery to candidates who will work for the good of the community. I know for a fact that Willie Crawford, at the behest of somebody, was distributing anti-Republican tickets among the Chinese, and he would be doing it today had the Advertiser not exposed him. The Advertiser gets to the bottom of crooked campaign work and does not hesitate to speak right out about it. I am satisfied that Crawford is not now using that ticket; he has been stopped, and I guess he will stay stopped."

DESHA'S MISSION.

Ask Jack Lucas which side will win out and he will tell you in a rush that Brown has Iaukea beaten and that Trent will be buried in a heavy snow on election day, but if you will ask the necessity for Desha leaving Hilo district at this time when he has a campaign of his own he will say frankly that he can not guess. The fact is word has been sent to Desha, the silver-tongued orator of the big island, that he is needed here to help, not alone Kuhio but the local ticket. It is not stated whether he will be asked to support the policy of the machine nor is it known how he will harmonize his doctrines and beliefs with the party of "booze, beer and buncombe." The McClanahan campaign on Hawaii has been strenuous and he is said to have won over a great many of the Hawaiians. There is a doubt of the result on this island and that doubt may have been communicated to Kuhio who is down for work here, having cut out Maui, believing that the success of McClanahan on Hawaii is but a reflection of the feeling here. Desha is a winner on the stump and it is possible he will remember he is of the cloth and turn
